

Getting ready for EDI with Woolworths

Version 8.2

Background & Overview

The Woolworths EDI (Electronic Data Interchange) Gateway enables the exchange (2-way) of transactional business documents between Woolworths and Trade Partners. The potential benefits of engaging in EDI with Woolworths include;

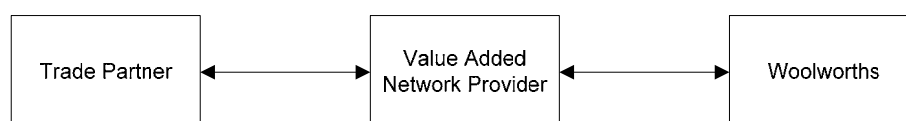

- Reduced manual intervention
- Reduce duplication
- Process automation

Transactional Documents exchanged through EDI with Woolworths include;

- Purchase Order
- Purchase Order Response
- Purchase Order Change
- Advance Shipping Notice
- Invoice

All Woolworths B2B capabilities have been developed in line with Global Industry Standards and industry best practice. As such, Woolworths preferred means of doing business is electronic and Trade Partners are encouraged to leverage our B2B capabilities for mutual benefit.

Woolworths EDI is facilitated by Third Party Value Added Network Providers (VAN's). To establish EDI connectivity with Woolworths, please make contact with one of our VAN Partners who will assist with your Woolworths EDI readiness (refer to list of Value Added Network Partners included in this document).

Alternatively, you can register your interest in EDI with Woolworths online and one of our B2B representatives will make contact with you to assist with this process. To register online please visit;

Technical Readiness

Once you have engaged a Value Added Network Partner to assist with your Woolworths EDI implementation, your Value Added Network Partner will guide you through the technical readiness steps which are a pre-requisite to testing with Woolworths. This would normally include specific interfacing or integration requirements from your in-house systems.

For technical information specific to EDI with Woolworths (i.e. Message Implementation Guides) please refer to our website below or contact your VAN;

<http://www.wowlink.com.au>

eBusiness Topic Centre > EDI (Electronic Data Interchange) Topic Centre
OR Contact your Value Added Network Partner directly.

VAN Partner & Woolworths Testing

When technical readiness with your Value Added Network Partner has been completed testing can be scheduled with Woolworths. This is normally facilitated by your Value Added Network Partner in conjunction with one of the Woolworths B2B Team representatives. Testing involves transacting a series of pre-defined test messages to ensure that connectivity and any integration into your systems is functioning correctly.

Once testing is completed successfully, a date for your EDI go live will be agreed and scheduled.
